

Creating conversations

Dying well takes planning

Call for end of life champions 2021

Would you like to empower people in Croydon to break down the silence and have important conversations about dying, death and grief, either in your professional capacity or as a volunteer within your community?

If you can commit to four free bite-sized training sessions on Zoom – with ongoing support from the project lead – we would love to hear from you.

The training Zoom meetings will be Wednesdays 14, 21 and 28 April and 5 May, 10am-1pm

For further information, visit Eventbrite via bit.ly/3cwPyLS or to register your interest, contact Carol Trower at c.trower@stchristophers.org.uk. The Creating Conversations project aims to break down the silence around death and give each of us a voice, where open conversations are welcome in normalising dying, death and grief. We are facing a time of such great upheaval and immeasurable change as we daily suffer through losses in various forms. The impact of living under the shadow of COVID-19 is far reaching and will last for a long time. We welcome all who live in Bromley, Lambeth, Southwark and Lewisham, to participate in this training, if space allows.
